Shannon Vogel, MS, FHIMSS, has been at the Texas Medical Association since 1999 and is director of the Health Information Technology Department, which provides advocacy, education, and resources for Texas physicians. Ms. Vogel is a Health Information Management Systems Society (HIMSS) fellow and serves on the board of the HIMSS Austin chapter. She received her bachelor's degree from St. Edward's University in Austin and master's degree in health informatics from the School of Biomedical Informatics at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston.

Yvonne Mounkhoune, RN, BSN, MA, PCMH CCE, is a practice management consultant with more than 20 years' experience in various health care settings including primary and urgent care practices, hospital, rehabilitation, and home health. Her expertise includes medical practice quality initiatives, patient-centered medical home certification, chronic disease management, electronic health record utilization, case management, and quality metric analytics and outcome reporting. She holds a bachelor's degree in nursing from Baptist College of Health Sciences in Memphis, Tenn., and a master's degree in counseling/marriage and family therapy from Liberty University in Lynchburg, Va.